Welcome to the cultural heart of London

South Bank is a vibrant and constantly evolving area of the city, known for its rich cultural offering as well as great family attractions, wide range of restaurants and bars and host of centrally located hotels, ideal for exploring the city. Just a short walk away from Trafalgar Square, Covent Garden and the Houses of Parliament, South Bank is an inspiring place for visitors of all ages to explore.

Nowhere else in London can lay claim to such an eclectic mix of iconic architecture, beautiful riverside views and wide selection of dining options in what has been coined ‘London’s Cultural Playground’. It’s a place where visitors can enjoy a relaxing stroll, soak up the atmosphere and stumble across unexpected events and experiences along the way.

This guide has been designed for travel industry professionals as well as independent travellers to help plan a visit to South Bank. With a variety of experiences on offer, ranging from meeting everyone’s favourite green giant at Shrek’s Adventure! London, enjoying views from the iconic London Eye, to a Backstage Tour at the National Theatre, there is something to suit everyone.
The SEA LIFE London Aquarium is South Bank’s very own world-class aquatic centre, with everything from a face-to-face encounter with sharks to Gentoo Penguins in an ice adventure. SEA LIFE London Aquarium is a great day out for school visits, a birthday outing or simply to enjoy exploring marine life.

Did you know?
• Oxo Tower Wharf was once a power station, built around 1900 to supply electricity to the Post Office.
• In the late 1920s it was purchased by the Liebig Extract of Meat Company, creators of the famous OXO beef cube. Its architect, Albert Moore, incorporated the design as windows on a tower to get around the ban on skyline advertising.
• Each of the illuminated letters on the Oxo Tower measures over 10ft high.

The Oxo Tower has been a Thames-side landmark since the 1930s. During this time, it had many owners including the Liebig Extract of Meat Company who produced the iconic Oxo Cube. After becoming derelict in the 1970s, the building and surrounding land were bought by Coin Street Community Builders and developed into the thriving mixed-use neighbourhood it is today.

Did you know?
• In the 1920s Oxo Tower Wharf was rebuilt by the Liebig meat company who were the manufacturers of the OXO cube. To avoid a ban on skyline advertising, the architect built the OXO Tower with four sets of three vertically aligned windows, each of which coincidentally happened to be in the shapes of a circle, a cross and a circle – O X O.
Skylon serves modern British cuisine from executive chef Tom Cook, who brings a seasonal contemporary approach to the kitchen. The restaurant offers stunning views over the Thames from its position on the third floor of the Royal Festival Hall.

Catering
- The main Restaurant offers modern British cuisine with a strong emphasis on seasonality and provenance and an occasional quirky take on classic dishes, with Executive Head Chef Tom Cook at the helm, whilst head sommelier Marco Marcuzzo can recommend outstanding wine pairings.
- In the more informal Grill, expect quality ingredients, simply cooked with natural flavours shining through.
- Skylon’s stunning centrepiece raised bar is a destination in its own right and renowned across London for its fabulous cocktails.

Accessiblity
- Fully accessible.

There is a private entrance on the corner of Southbank Centre opposite Hungerford Bridge which is open from 10am – 1am daily.

Did you know?
- Skylon takes its name from the iconic structure that was built on the South Bank for the 1951 Festival of Britain.
- Skylon’s design echoes the style of the Royal Festival Hall during the same period with some contemporary touches, such as the uniquely designed chandeliers and surfaces of bronze, walnut and slate.
- In spite of its popularity with the public, the cost of dismantling and re-erecting the Skylon in 1951 was deemed too much for a government. Speculation as to the Skylon’s fate included theories that it was dumped into the Thames, buried under Jubilee Gardens, made into souvenirs or sold as scrap.
The South Bank Business Improvement District (BID) was set up in 2014 to respond to the issues South Bank faces and is reinforced by consultation with the business community. It works on various initiatives such as the delivery of a safer, cleaner and greener neighbourhood, promotion of the South Bank and its individual businesses and acting as a representative voice for the area.

Family Fun
Begin the day with breakfast at House of Crepes in Gabriel’s Wharf, a designer-maker’s paradise right by the Thames. In the summertime, grab something alfresco from Sarnies, then amble along the Riverside Walkway, looking out for street entertainers and pop-up arts events, or build sandcastles on Ernie’s Beach, located just opposite Bernie Spain Gardens and Oxo Tower Wharf.

Just 15 minutes along the riverside, you’ll find a host of family-friendly attractions such as the 135-metre tall Coca-Cola London Eye. Offering a bird’s-eye view of London’s most famous sites, the London Eye is the capital’s most popular tourist attraction. The perfect prelude to your rotation is the 4D Cinema Experience which contains revolutionary aerial photography over London. Allow 1 – 1.5 hours.

Just two minutes away, within the historic County Hall are SEA LIFE London Aquarium, home to one of Europe’s largest collections of global marine life, the legendary London Dungeon and South Bank’s newest attraction, Shrek’s Adventure! London. Offering a bird’s-eye view of London’s most famous sites, the London Eye is the capital’s most popular tourist attraction. The perfect prelude to your rotation is the 4D Cinema Experience which contains revolutionary aerial photography over London. The perfect prelude to your rotation is the 4D Cinema Experience which contains revolutionary aerial photography over London. Allow 1 – 1.5 hours.

Alternatively, watch a family-friendly film or the latest 3D extravaganza on the biggest screen in Europe at BFI IMAX. For lunch, head along the river towards Southbank Centre and take a pit stop at either Wagamama or Giraffe, which have plenty to choose from on the kids’ menu. In the summer, relax in the floral oasis that is the Queen Elizabeth Hall Roof Garden, or picnic in the newly renovated Jubilee Gardens. For a more upscale dining experience, try Gillray’s at Marriott County Hall, where children eat free. After lunch, walk five minutes along the riverside towards Westminster Bridge. Cross the bridge and turn left to reach the Florence Nightingale Museum, located in the grounds of St Thomas’ Hospital. The newly relaunched museum offers fun workshops and activities for families, including talks and magic lantern shows during weekends and school holidays. Allow 1 hour.

Finish the day with an amphibious adventure on a London Duck Tour (allow 1.5 hours) or take a London Eye River Cruise to see the sights of London from the Thames (allow 40 minutes).

Cultural Kicks
Kick off the day with breakfast or brunch at Sea Containers at Mondrian London. South Bank’s chic new hotel, complete with breath-taking views across the capital. Enjoy fresh continental options as well as mainstays such as blueberry pancakes, waffles and a full Farmer’s Breakfast. For something lighter, head to the National Theatre’s Espresso Bar for 100% Arabica red label coffee and fresh pastries. Art and design fans should walk east along the riverside towards Oxo Tower Wharf to visit gallery@oxo and Bargehouse. These jewels of urban architecture offer a packed programme of free exhibitions featuring the best in design, photography and contemporary art. Allow 30 minutes.

Book your group in with a morning Backstage Tour at the National Theatre, the UK’s foremost theatre venue. Led by experienced guides, discover the history of the iconic brutalist building and enjoy exclusive access to unseen parts of the theatre. Allow 1.5 – 2 hours.

For lunch, stop off at Benugo at BFI Southbank which offers a great all-day dining menu and be sure to check out the BFI’s film seasons, Mediatheque and Filmstore for all things film-related.

If you prefer a sightseeing tour, hop on City Cruises, London’s leading operator of tourist cruises on the River Thames. They operate a whole host of multi-language themed cruises and have a fully licenced Costa Coffee shop on board.

In the evening, grab a light bite at the Scandinavian-inspired Penny Café at The Old Vic, London’s oldest working theatre, before heading upstairs to see a play. After the performance, get a drink at at Mark's Bar, which serves a selection of craft beers, wines and Instagrammable cocktails in an eclectic setting. Staying open until 2am Thursday to Saturday, it’s the ideal place for a late-night rendezvous in Waterloo.

History & Architecture
Download a self-guided walking tour from southbanklondon.com/traveltrade and gain a fascinating insight into the heart and history of South Bank. For keen photographers, we recommend a photo-walk which is also available to download from the above link, and don’t forget to check out our account on Instagram and tag your photos #MySouthBank to share with our community! The South Bank area is peppered with unique examples of architecture and hidden mementoes from the past that are waiting to be explored.

Follow the guide in the morning and discover pockets of architecture and history along the Thames such as the South Bank Lion, stark Brutalist architecture at the National Theatre and Southbank Centre and Art Deco flair at OXO Tower.

Stop for lunch at Skylon (named after the Skylyn tower from the 1951 Festival of Britain) in modernist Royal Festival Hall and enjoy a panorama of the Thames and Golden Jubilee Bridges.

Once your batteries have been recharged, head over to BFI Southbank, the UK’s foremost film centre, which shows a selection of classic and contemporary films. Explore the Mediatheque where you can delve through the BFI National Archive, ranging from short public information films to full-length feature films, for free. Turn up on the day or book in advance.

Head to IWM London (free admission) which tells the stories of those whose lives have been shaped by war from the First World War to the present day, through galleries, collections and the latest special exhibitions (allow 1.5 – 2 hours) and wrap up with a trip to House of Vans. Located under Waterloo Station, these once-derelict vaults have been transformed into London’s coolest skate park and urban art venue, which also houses a 100-seat cinema. Hop across to Leake Street (also known as Graffiti Tunnel), right beside House of Vans, for an amazing display of street art.

For an alternative way of travel, opt for a River Roamer ticket by MBNA Thames Clippers, allowing you to zip up and down the river all day, linking many of South Bank’s historical riverside sights.

Indulgence
For an indulgent day out on the riverside, begin the day by booking a Themed Experience on the Coca-Cola London Eye, perfect for small groups and couples (flights begin 12pm). Enjoy a glass of Pommery Brut Royal champagne served by your host while you relax. The Themed Experiences include priority fast-track boarding and a free in-flight mini guide. Allow 1 hour.

After your Themed Experience head to the 5-star London Marriott Hotel County Hall to enjoy a traditional Afternoon Tea in their impressive Library Lounge, complete with delicious scones, cakes and finger sandwiches. The Library Lounge also boasts impressive views of Westminster and the Thames. Sittings between 2.30pm and 4.30pm every day. Allow 1 – 1.5 hours.

After tea, unwind at the Marriott’s luxury Club & Spa, open to the public, which includes a 25-metre indoor pool, sauna and steam room plus a wish list of tempting spa treatments. We can also recommend Park Plaza Westminster Bridge’s Mandara spa, which brings a traditional Bali spa experience to London.

For those looking for a little retail therapy, head to Oxo Tower Wharf to explore irresistible designer boutiques and wander around the designer-maker studios. There’s also a great choice of cafes and bars to recharge your batteries at Gabriel’s Wharf – perfectly located to enjoy the views across London.

Finish the day by enjoying top-end dining and classic cocktails with a view at OXO Tower Restaurant Bar & Brasserie, or head to Primo Bar at Park Plaza Westminster Bridge for free live music every night.
